Advancing access to cancer research across Puerto Rico through expert care, innovative studies, and patient education.

Spotlight on Our Ponce Site

At PanOncology, we are proud to highlight our growing presence in Ponce, expanding access to advanced oncology clinical research for patients in southern Puerto Rico. This site is led by Dr. José A. Cangiano, a respected oncology specialist committed to bringing high-quality cancer care and research opportunities closer to the community.

Our Ponce location strengthens our islandwide network and helps patients explore innovative treatment options without the burden of traveling far from home. Through this expansion, we continue our mission of making cutting-edge cancer research more accessible to all Puerto Ricans.

Now Enrolling: Gastric and Esophageal Cancer Clinical Trials

PanOncology Trials is currently offering new research opportunities to eligible patients diagnosed with stomach, gastroesophageal junction, or esophageal cancer.

Current studies include investigational therapies evaluating next-generation targeted treatments, immunotherapy combinations, and alternative delivery methods designed to improve outcomes and patient experience.
